

Hello Dafne,

Congratulations on completing your Enneagram Type Assessment!

My name is Beth McCord, and we're going to get to know each other real well over the next few days. My husband, Jeff McCord, and I founded Your Enneagram Coach, where we train and certify Enneagram Coaches to provide greater self-awareness, clarity, and transformation for clients around the world.

We believe the Enneagram and the Gospel are two of the most powerful tools out there for transformation and healing. But before you can experience this, you have to know your Type.

So without further ado . . .

You are a Type 3!

View Your Results

---

You Are A Type 3

Not sure you have the right type? Verify it here.

---

Your Enneagram Type Probability

YOUR TOP TWO TYPES

NOTE: Is your top Enneagram Type in the No. 2 position in the table instead of at the top? Here's how that happened: Toward the end of the assessment, we asked you to choose between statements that featured your top two Enneagram Types. Your responses led to determining the Enneagram Type you see in this report. In your case, your responses eliminated the Enneagram Type that had the highest overall score.

YOUR OTHER TYPE RESULTS

Today Ron took over the first half of the class. We took the Enneagram test and my results are above. I am type 3: The Achiever and I cannot agree more with how accurate the results are. Type 3 are called “achiever” because they strive to be the best version of themselves, but to me these are the types of people who want to be perceived by others as successful because they need constant validation from others to feel worthy and loved.

We also had Don Howard from Cohort 5 come and speak about his experience in the cohort and his life as a cyber security professional right now. I resonate a lot with Done because we both came from a service/retail background trying to get into tech for passion and a better quality of life. I also like that he strives to be a CESO one day. He has a clear goal in mind and he overcame the worst part of having a better life today. I also admire his ongoing passion for the field and how he came back to the place that helped nourish his career growth to share his experience with my cohort.

The last part of the class was run by Primous and JW. Primous went over the concept of a Roundtable meeting with what we should wear, how we should behave, and things we need to look out for or ask. He also emphasized on how important a 30 second elevator pitch is and had us break into groups to formulate our own 30 seconds pitch.

Discover the great things about Type 3s

Of all the Enneagram Types, 3's stand out for their confidence, efficiency, and ability to excel and achieve incredible things for themselves and the teams they're on. Their drive to win and accomplish, love of competition, and willingness to work hard, cause them to be action oriented, and successful in achieving the goals they set for themselves. Those things coupled with their optimism, adaptability, and ability to inspire people, reflect the hope and radiance of God.

What drives a Type 3s to think, feel, and behave in particular ways?

THEIR CORE MOTIVATIONS

CORE FEAR

Being a failure, incompetent, inefficient, unproductive, exposed, worthless or unable to appear successful

CORE DESIRE

To have high status, admiration, success, valued and respected by others

CORE WEAKNESS

Deceit — they deceive themselves into believing that they are only the image they present to others, therefore, they will embellish the truth by always putting on a polished persona for everyone (including themselves) to see and admire.

CORE LONGING

"You are loved for simply being you."